NEWS FROM NEWS (...AND VIEWS)

Larry Moss

This month News and Views welcomes back commentators Lawrence Sherman (Monday's 6:10 pm), Dr. Isidore Ziferstein, who has just returned from several months in the Soviet Union (A Psychiatrist Views the News, Tuesdays at 6:10), and political scientist Joyce Fadem, whose Report to the Voter will focus on the upcoming primary races (Wednesdays, 6:25).

A word about some new and resumed series which began last month (but which were not folioed because of printing deadlines):

William Winter will continue with his now daily news analysis at 6:00 pm. Mr. Winter gives us the benefit of his years of experience as a foreign correspondent, and as new analyst with the CBS ^{news} ARC radio and television networks and the National Educational Television. He has also conducted William Winter Study Tours to virtually every part of the world.

Ava Helen Pauling now comments each month on News and Views. The writer, lecturer, and wife of Nobel Laureate Linus Pauling is heard the 3rd Thursday of each month following William Winter. Mrs. Pauling will also be in our studios this month in a one hour special broadcast on Saturday, March 20 at 4:30 pm. Join her via telephone.

H. Rudolph Alsleben, M.D., a general practitioner specializing in preventative medicine is heard frequently on the 5:30 News (and of course on the 11:00 pm rebroadcast of the news).

Dr. Dick Huemer also is resuming his occasional medical reports this month after some weeks in Hawaii.

His series on unorthodox cancer treatments will ~~also~~ be rebroadcast and updated in a special hour long program on Thursday, March 11 at 6:30 pm.

This month will see some changes in our Foreign Press series. Martin Hall will now offer a monthly one hour in-depth review of the German scene with guests and listener participation (March 18, 6:30 pm). His former slot on News and Views will be filled by Mr. John Houlton reviewing the British Press (March 16, 6:20 pm).

News and Views listeners will want to hear a special one hour program March 26 at 6:30 pm, The Ecology Fad: The Illusion of Action without the Reality of Performance. It's a followup to Pauline Koch's commentary series in December and January. Mrs. Koch and science columnist Irving Bengelsdorf will confront the problem and you, the listener, as to your own illusions and commitment to effective action.

Our continuing series FRONTIERS OF RESEARCH will focus this month on The World of Epistemics, a development from the General Semantics of Alfred Korzybski. We're pleased to have author and lecturer Ethel Longstreet, Executive Director of Viewpoints Institute in Los Angeles, to present the series each Wednesday this month (following William Winter) at 6:10 pm. Mrs. Longstreet will look at man's conceptual framework, how he knows what he knows and how he lives his life in relation to his knowing. General Semantics, first formulated by Korzybski in 1933, has been called an early warning system for the detection of semantic pollution.

NIXON DEBATES:

John F. Kennedy defeated Richard Nixon in the 1960 Presidential elections by less than 119,000 votes. It is part of political folklore that the television and radio debates of 1960 accounted for the small margin Kennedy - an underdog at the time - finally achieved. In addition to the historical studies of the contrasting personalities of two very different men under pressure

SOCIETY AND SURVIVAL:
The technology characteristic of our present society is based on physics and chemistry, but the society of the future may be characterized by applied biology and psychology, says Gerald Feinberg, Professor of Physics at Columbia University. Science can provide the means for mankind to survive and prosper, but society must decide on priorities and direct the human enterprise, he argues

A THERMODYNAMIC ANALYSIS OF SOCIETY:

To insure the long-range survival of man on this planet, it will be necessary to re-cycle organized physical resources and to rely on current solar energy, not fossil fuels, says Stephen Berry,
Professor of Chemistry at the University of Chicago. Besides such "thermodynamic thrift," he calls for flexible societies based on multiple technologies to minimize the global impact of short-range environment catastro-phies

This production is produced by Peter Wood for the National Theatre of Great Britain with music by Marc Wilkinson. In the cast are Sir Lawrence Olivier, Joyce Redman, Mile Malleon, Lynn Redgrave and many more distinguished English actors.

The Play was written in 1695 in an England restored to monarchy, G.M. Trevelyan says of the period, "While religion divided, trade united the nation and trade was gaining in relative importance. The bible had now a rival in the ledger." and Hazlitt described Congreve: "His style is inimitable, nay perfect. It is the highest model of comic dialogue." RCA VDS - 112 (120:00)

These Do Not Shriek or Writhe

This is an enchanted folk group with classic and jazz overlappings.

Pentangle are five—Bert Jansch, John Renbourn, Jacqui McShee, Terry Cox and Danny Thompson.

They play and sing intricately arranged vocal/instrumental songs.

Frequently English folk ballads, occasionally modern jazz-like tunes, sometimes artful originals.

There is nobody else like them.

They have recorded three previous Reprise albums, THE PENTANGLE, SWEET CHILD (a double one) and BASKET OF LIGHT.

CRUEL SISTER is their fourth and newest on Reprise Records and Ampex-distributed tapes.

This is a guitar wizard who is more than a part of the sum at left.

No, he doesn't look anything like Eric Clapton. His name is John Renbourn.

Most of his time is spent with English folk/art/jazz group Pentangle.

His second and new solo album is THE LADY AND THE UNICORN.

Like his first album (SIR JOHN ALOT OF MERRIE ENGLAND'S MUSYK THYNG), his latest features his impeccable guitar styling, re-charged folk ballads and subtle compositions.

THE LADY AND THE UNICORN and John Renbourn are on Reprise Records and Ampex-distributed tapes.

Vaughan Williams / A Sea Symphony (Symphony No. 1). Heather Harper, soprano; John Shirley-Quirk, baritone.
London Symphony Orchestra and Chorus / Andre Previn conducting.
RCA stereo disk LSC 3170.

"Behold, the sea itself!" And with a blare of trumpets, Vaughan Williams swiftly raises the curtain on his mighty canvas of the ocean in all its mystery and glory. Only Debussy's La Mer, among the many orchestral scores depicting the sea in one fashion or another, can match the grandeur and awesome power of this work. Like Debussy, Vaughan Williams has sought to capture in sound some of the fury and terrifying force of the waves, but balances the mighty opening movement with a long, contemplative finale which ends with the soloists repeating Walt Whitman's words, "O farther, farther sail!" over and over--the first of the great Vaughan Williams symphonic epiloas.

The recording of the Sea Symphony is part of a projected cycle of all the Vaughan Williams symphonies that he is undertaking for RCA (Sir Adrian Boult is doing the same for Angel). In this case, my preferences are with Previn. He brings a sweep and drive (to the first movement especially) that I can scarcely imagine any other way of doing it. The soloists, Heather Harper and John Shirley-Quirk, are in top form, and the singers of the London Symphony Chorus are an equal match for the players in the orchestra (which is to say, very fine). RCA's sound is just a bit distant, but wonderfully atmospheric and spacious. You certainly get your money's worth on this disk-- quantity and quality (65 minutes, 31 seconds!)

SMALL NOTE ON DEPARTURE

It is not without ambivalence that I have decided to leave KPFK. The time I have spent here since October, 1966 has not been without its personal rewards, but it is time for me to move on to something else. My wishes are, for all the growth that seems on the verge of taking place here, actually come to be and that you, the listeners and supporters, new and old, continue to be as well. I hope that I leave as much as I take with me.

NORBEL DURNQUEST'S ALL AMERICAN LIZARD SHOW...

It's Thursday night and you have nothing to do. Channel 5 and 7 have gone off the air, so you can now get that wierd radio station on 6. As the set warms up and the screen starts doing strange things to your head, (you have been warned about the effects of NDAALS) you decide you don't care. (You don't even know what NDAALS is---yet). The tube speaks with the intrinsic ramifications of a lizard (the first clue). "Yes, kids, it's time once again for the exciting adventures of Norbel Durnquest, All-American Hero!" You begin to wonder what Johnny Quick has been doing all week. And Lyle Carlyle---and Sgt. Troy Destroy---and Dirk Dull---and THE ALL-AMERICAN LIZARD CO.---what about them? Geoff Sykes, Bob Gross, Don Henderson, Andrew Bokelman, Bruce Gossard, and their endless guests---all from Norbel Durnquest's All-American Lizard Show, on Thursday nights at 11:30 p.m. until And you sit back in your Jello-filled water bed and you say to yourself, "Hmnnnnnnnn, strange indeed---I wonder---?"

MARCH SEES GREATER DEMAND FOR STAMPS THAN EVER ...

In a startling move today, Lanny the tongue Orlin announced the removal of his left cheek. The move, he stated, was due to the increasing number of enemy stamps infiltrating the station during the recent monsoon. Observers here stated that the move was also designed to aid the movement of more allied Blue Chip Stamps into the Tongues wet areas.

The Tongue, as Lanny is called in the Tongue trade, gained renown during World War II as a stamp lick at WAC camps throughout the European theatre. He was decorated three times for helping to boost morale amongst the WACS during off hours. Since that time he has been awarded the silver tongue award five years running. The award is given out annually to the year's outstanding tongue man from ballots sent in by KPFK Folio Subscribers who have sent Blue Chip Stamps in as ballots.

At the close of the conference, The Tongue Man generated a good deal of laughter by smiling. He also announced that the Stamps needed for March would far exceed previous estimates due to the high concentration of tolerance in his tongue area. "It is hoped," he stated, "that by the removal of my left cheek I can better live up to my reputation as the world's greatest tongue man." Mr. Orlin requested those present who were involved in the media to help him in his campaign for March, said to be the most ambitious request for more stamps in recent memory. "As I have said many times before," he said soberly, "stamps keep my tongue out of trouble. Though you think lightly of my habit, a stamp book sent to KPFK, L.A. 38, is going to keep my tongue off the street.

Thanks for the stamps last month
